Jury Will Convene Today, However, To Hear The Testimony

DUCK ISLAND CASE

Negro Soldier On Stand For A Day and a Half To Tell His Story

BRISTOL, Dec. 16.—The jury will convene today to hear Clarence Hill's charges that he was beaten in the presence of the Fort Dix provost marshal and forced to dig with bare hands for the shot-gun on lonely Duck Island where he is alleged to have murdered a couple in 1938. The victims were reported to be Mary Myatovich, 15, and Vincenzo Tonello, 20, of Trenton.

The trial testimony of 34-year-old Clarence Hill that he was forced into confessing the 1938 lovers' lone shotgun slaying was termed "illogical" yesterday by Judge Frank S. Katzenbach.

"I am satisfied the State has sustained the voluntary factor involved in the taking of the statements," he said. "If these statements are offered in evidence, I will let the jury decide whether they are voluntary or not."

The jurors were barred from the courtroom for three days while Judge Katzenbach considered whether Hill's story of being beaten at Fort Dix and later at the Hamilton township, N. J., jail should be submitted to them.

"There is no basis for the defendant's statements," Judge Katzenbach said as court recessed last night. "This story is somewhat illogical. I am presenting the facts as I find them to the jury."

The impassive army private, arrested last January after a three-week search, remained on the witness stand for a day and a half to tell his story of beatings and abuse by civilian and military police.

Girls' Choir Presents Very Pleasing Concert

The selections given by the girls' choir of Bristol Township Junior high school on Thursday evening in Bristol high school auditorium were thoroughly enjoyed.

Eight numbers were given by the choir. Mrs. A. Erna McKevitt, director of music, was in charge; and the accompanist was Beverly Green.

In addition to choir numbers, there were the following: Vocal solo, "Ave Maria," Marcia VanLangen; piano duet, Bernice Britton and Beverly Green; sextet, Marcia VanLangen, Jan Marsh, Joan McCoy and Beverly Green; song, "The Christmas Song," by Joan McCoy and Joan Dixon; song by Joan Dixon and "Betty" McCoy; and choir, vocal solo, Bessie Stouten and choir.

UP-TO-PRESS-TIME WAR BULLETINS

(By International News Service)

Germans Try to Stem Tide of American 7th Army

Paris—German forces defending the deated westwall brought up a tank division from another sector of the front today in an effort to stem the formidable onslaught of the American Seventh Army which sent spearheads of three divisions smashing across the Reich frontier in a drive for the Rhenish plain.

The Yank forces moved ahead under heavy fire from Nazi guns in the Siegfried and Maginot lines in a large-scale push which threatened the industrial cities of Mannheim and Ludwigshafen and Karlsruhe.

A dispatch by a German war correspondent asserted that the High Command was sending more and new dangerous weapons to the storm centers of the front.

In the sweep which carried the Seventh, commanded by Lieut. Gen. Alexander M. Patch, across the Reich frontier gains of from four to six miles were scored.

Bitter Street Fighting in Athens

Athens—Bitter street fighting flared again today in the streets of Athens between dissident left-wing Elass militiamen and British and Greek government forces.

The combat took place despite constant efforts of conferees to solve political difficulties which precipitated the civil strife. Greek and British officials worked across the conference tables in an effort to find an early solution while the drone of British fighter planes seeking to smash Elass strongpoints could be heard.

The Cairo radio said today that British troops had recaptured the Athens radio station and driven the Elass forces from the building.

To the People of this Community

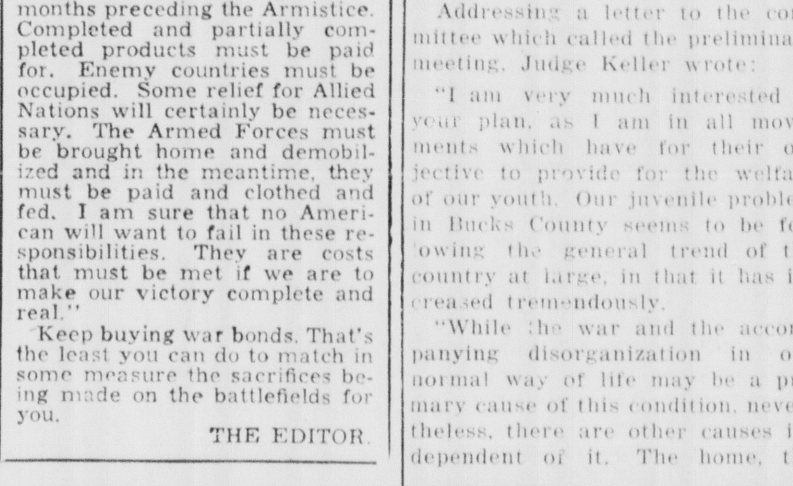

The Sixth War Loan campaign ends tomorrow but the war continues. Even if the cease firing order were given on all the world's battlefields, your war financing obligations would be with you for a long time to come.

On this point, here's a quotation from a recent talk of Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr.:

"Let me remind you, too, that war expenditures do not stop abruptly with enemy capitulation. During the first six months following the Armistice in World War I, expenditures were slightly greater than during the six months preceding the Armistice. Completed and partially completed products must be paid for. Enemy countries must be occupied. Some relief for Allied Nations will certainly be necessary. The Armed Forces must be brought home and demobilized and in the meantime, they must be paid and clothed and fed. I am sure that no American will want to fail in these responsibilities. They are costs that must be met if we are to make our victory complete and real."

Keep buying war bonds. That's the least you can do to match in some measure the sacrifices being made on the battlefields for you.

Hulmeville Serviceman Visits British Factory

In a communication from Miss J. M. Gibson, of Nottingham, England, details are given of a trip taken by a party of convalescent soldiers from a nearby military hospital to Derby Cables, Ltd. In the party visiting the factory was a Bucks County man, PFC Wallace E. Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Davis, of Hulmeville.

At the factory the service men had the opportunity of seeing how cables of all sizes are made. The men were much interested and their main thought expressed was "I never knew so much trouble had to be taken to make one cable."

Following the factory tour they were entertained at tea in the large canteen. The general manager of the firm made a short speech of welcome and then the men were served dinner.

Bond, Stamp Sales Mount Each Month at Jefferson Avenue School

PROUD OF BANNER

During the month of September, Jefferson avenue school pupils sold $399.50 worth of defense stamps and war bonds. From October 2nd to November 3rd, students were at work on the project, a paratroop cargo, which cost $635. By the closing date they had received $684.70 from the sale of stamps and bonds. Four rooms had earned a "minute banner" for having 99 to 100% sales in their rooms.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

Defending Miss Perkins

Washington, Dec. 14. FOR a long time it has been the custom among politicians and political writers to make fun of Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins. Both in and out of the Administration, she has been the target for jokes, jeers and sneers. In the last three Roosevelt campaigns she was the one Cabinet member singled out for attack.

NOW THAT Mr. Roosevelt is reported ready to name a new—and male—secretary acceptable to the CIO and the AFL, it seems timely to inquire just what is the matter with Miss Perkins. It also seems worth asking whether, considering the names on the White House slate, the new Secretary will be much of an improvement. If any, over Miss Perkins. She is said to be tired and not anxious to continue in office for another four years. But before those who have harped scornfully for so long on the "Madame" Perkins string rush up on the roof to cheer it might be well to consider whom they are going to get in her place and exactly what they had to complain about in her.

NO SERIOUS charges have ever been made against Secretary Perkins; no specific criticism of a kind calling for reply has been offered. It is true she did not make administrative labor policy either in peace or in war. But that is hardly her fault. Mr. Roosevelt's intimate personal and political relations with the labor leaders (particularly of the CIO) made it inevitable that he should make his own labor policy. The Wagner Act, creating an independent National Labor Relations Board, in 1934, and, much more recently, the creation of the War Labor Board, have still further removed labor policy from the Labor Department. But those things would have happened under any other Secretary and involved no reflection upon Miss Perkins.

FAR from being the worst Secretary of Labor we have had, a good

The Proposed Canteen

Judge Hiram H. Keller Expresses His Interest in Efforts to Establish Canteen Here for The Youth of The Community

Consideration of a juvenile canteen for Bristol has aroused considerable interest in the Bristol area and the idea is favored by some, while others claim that the necessity here does not exist. They argue that it is the duty of the parents to see that their children are under the proper control at all times.

An expression of opinion was requested by the Committee from President Judge Hiram H. Keller, of the Bucks County Courts.

Addressing a letter to the committee which called the preliminary meeting, Judge Keller wrote:

"I am very much interested in your plan, as I am in all movements which have for their objective to provide for the welfare of our youth. Our juvenile problem in Bucks County seems to be following the general trend of the country at large, in that it has increased tremendously.

"While the war and the accompanying disorganization in our normal way of life may be a primary cause of this condition, nevertheless, there are other causes independent of it. The home, the school, the church and the community all must share the responsibility, in that they have been lax in failing to provide delinquency preventive programs from a realistic standpoint.

"Although most of our cases can be traced to lack of proper home environment and discipline, particularly among the younger children, the lack of proper community environment undoubtedly accounts for much of our 'teen age' group being in trouble. This group, in particular, needs our consideration and it is largely a community problem. Even under normal conditions, this is more or less a perplexing period in their lives and the war has intensified and aggravated the problems they face and has made their solution much more difficult. One of the big factors in his respect is the lack of curtailment of suitable recreation facilities. More and more of our communities are beginning to realize this and are taking steps to improve them and, I sincerely trust that some good will come out of your efforts in this direction in Bristol."

Capellas Entertain In Honor of Daughter

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Capella, Logans street, gave a party, Tuesday evening, at their home in honor of their daughter Loretta, who was celebrating her sixth birthday. The evening was enjoyed playing games, and prizes were given to Louis Clott, Frank Caruso and Mary Jo Paglione. Refreshments were served in the dining room, which was decorated in pink. Loretta received many gifts.

Those present: Carmella and Samuel Rossi, Mary Jo and "Betsy" Paglione, Mathilda D'Ambrosia, Joan and Anthony Placento, Lois Capella, Alexander Greco, Josephine, Frances and Louis Clott, Marie, Anna and Frank Caruso, Veronica Capella, Mrs. Faust Clott, Mrs. Samuel Rossi, Mrs. Charles Capella, Mrs. Mario Clott, Mrs. Anthony Capella.

URGENT! XMAS RUSH IS ON AT POST OFFICE; HIRE EXTRA HELP

32,000 Letters and Cards Cancelled During Yesterday

ADVICE: "MAIL NOW"

Public Urged to Co-operate To Guarantee Delivery

A total of 19 extra clerks and carriers are in the midst of the Christmas rush with regular workers at the Bristol post office this season. The majority of the extra employees are serving as carriers, two being added to rural routes, and he others to borough routes.

On Wednesday of this week, 21,999 letters and postal cards were put through cancelling machines at Bristol post office; on Thursday, 27,000; and on Friday, 32,000.

The total is mounting daily, as well as the number of packages being sent by parcel post.

"Mail Christmas cards at once, if you haven't already done so," is the urgent advice of the postmaster and his aides.

Each day sees crowds at the post office building, with individuals making their way to the post office building by the scores from 3.30 to six p. m. daily, to mail parcels. Most of these packages are now being mailed to servicemen in this country, it is stated.

"Christmas mailing started early this year, but not as early as last year and not early enough," states postmaster Joseph P. Duffy.

The turnover of letters, cards and packages daily is tremendous and workers are doing their best to cope with the situation.

The majority of the additional carrier and clerks are high school boys, who are helping at this busy season. The plan now in practice in the borough is for three carriers to cover each route daily. Thus there are really three deliveries daily instead of two. This will continue until and including December 23rd. Rather than have the carriers return to the post office for huge packs, they are picking up mail from storage boxes to which mail is carted by truck several times daily.

It is stated that a greater burden has been placed on Bristol post office this year due to the fact that the one sub-postoffice on Farragut avenue has been discontinued. The one remaining sub-postoffice is located in Fabian's store, Radcliffe and Mulberry streets.

W. T. Smith Found Shot; Reported To Be Suicide

William T. Smith, industrial financier and manager and building consultant at 39 Broadway, New York, was found shot through the head at eight o'clock Wednesday morning in his home at Short Hills, N. J.

During World War I, Mr. Smith was located here representing the Harriman interests with the Merchant Shipbuilding Corporation which built and operated the large steel ship fabrication yards on the site now occupied by Fleetwings plant No. 1.

Mr. Smith's wife, Mrs. Gertrude H. Smith, found her husband's body after hearing a revolver shot. Mr. Smith was 69 years old.

Clifford H. Kaehler, county medical aide, pronounced the death a suicide, he said Mr. Smith suffered a nervous breakdown four weeks ago. The building consultant was a former partner and vice-president of W. A. Harriman & Co., New York industrial finance and management firm, and former vice-president of the Merchant Shipbuilding Corporation. He established his own business in 1925.

Besides his wife, he leaves two daughters, Mrs. Edmund V. O'Brien and Mrs. Hawley Jaquith, and a son, Lieut. William T. Smith, Jr., USNR.

PEREMPTORY WAR NEEDS

Congressmen visiting General Eisenhower at his Paris headquarters were told by him that the current shell shortage was caused by fluctuating conditions of warfare and weather which had upset estimates of ammunition needs. He said the blame could not be placed in any one quarter and added that the main point was to deliver more shells in the shortest possible period of time.

General Eisenhower's view of the critical ammunition shortage is in line with that expressed by Secretary of War Stimson. To such official observations no reasonable exception can be taken. Certainly the practical question is not as to the blame for this deficiency of ammunition but instead, as General Eisenhower indicated, how best to remedy it.

But it hardly can be gainsaid that the unfortunate situation might have been avoided if operations had been based on the theory that the best way to anticipate any shortcomings of ammunition supply is to provide as far as possible against any and all that may arise. There could be no larger challenge to adequate supply of the war effort than the prospect of having to fight a global war to a successful conclusion on both sides of the world. This surely calls for everything that can be produced.

What the future of natural rubber may be is uncertain, and the uncertainty mounts with the assertion by American industrialists that synthetic rubber can be made for 15 cents per pound. That figure is 21 per cent below the average price of pre-war natural rubber. Furthermore, industrialists say there is a possibility that the selling price of synthetic can be shaved a cent or two lower than 15 cents and still leave a reasonable profit.

The British, the Dutch and the French, who will control most of the natural rubber areas of the world after Japan falls, make the plea that if America cuts loose from natural rubber, it will leave economically stranded large native populations in the East Indies, Malaya, Burma and Indo-China who depend upon the gathering of natural rubber for their livelihood. They propose that the United States government dismantle most of the war-born synthetic plants.

But the appeal of prices is ruthless. Should the United States listen to the Oriental colonial powers and scrap a large part of the synthetic industry, there would be nothing to keep private operators from making synthetic and underselling the natural product in the domestic market. That would be a possibility only if synthetic proves to be as satisfactory as natural rubber. Today it is far less satisfactory, but it has made rapid strides in a period of months and further improvement should not only be possible but should not be long delayed.

Tasty Supper is Served To A Plaque Committee

The Third Ward Plaque committee held a Christmas party in Good Will Fire Co. station, Swain street, Wednesday evening.

Supper was served and the menu included meat loaf, mashed potatoes, peas, celery, cole slaw, pickles, rolls, cake, ice cream, and coffee.

A small Christmas tree and candles formed the table decorations. Gifts were exchanged; a business meeting was held and a social time enjoyed.

Today's Quiet Moment

By Rev. Bickley Burns Brodhead
Pastor
Bensalem Methodist Church

Lord of us all, who hast made of one blood all the nations, strengthen the bonds that tie us to Thee and to our brother travelers. May thy vision inspire us to lend a helping hand to those on lonely lanes, to speak words of hope to those on the plains of discouragement, and to join in prayer with all those in the valley of shadow and suffering.
Enlarge our hearts to include all thy children, everywhere, at this Christmastide, we pray.

Direct our thoughts unto thy peace and goodwill; abide in us,
O Holy Spirit, that we may fear only sin and desire only truth.
Grant to us the joy that comes only through faith. We pray in the Master's name, Amen.

DEVON SMITH AND "BILL" TABOR ENGAGE IN INDIVIDUAL SCORING DUEL; EACH SCORES 22 POINTS

In a tilt which turned out to be an individual scoring duel between Devon Smith and "Bill" Tabor, the Fleetwings Arrows won over the 75th Military Police Barracks team of Philadelphia, last night on the high school floor.

Smith, of the aircraft workers, and Tabor, of the army men, accounted for 22 points each. Smith's shots were mostly of the set variety while Tabor was dropping them in from all angles of the court.

The shooting of the Fleetwings team from the foul line was also a help in the victory as the Bristol team sunk in 9 out of 12 tries while the visiting team made but 7 out of 17.

The Arrows took the lead early in the game and never relinquished it although the Military Police five made several spurts which appeared threatening.

Pupils Do Splendid Work On Projects

Blockbuster bombs which cost $178. By the closing date they had sold $1,175.70 worth of stamps and bonds. November found five additional rooms having 90 to 100% sales. Only the fifth grade was without a minute banner.

The Jefferson avenue school has just received from the U. S. Treasury Department its second citation for successful completion of its "Schools-at-War Equipment Campaign." The first one received was for a parachute cargo, and the newest one is for a "Blockbuster" bomb.

Nine rooms, most of which had 100% sales, brought the school up to 95% sales, and now the "Schools-at-War" Minute Man flag flies below "Old Glory" on the flag pole. Beginning on Dec. 4th, they decided upon the project of "Walkie-Talkies" (radio phones). These cost $200 each. On Dec. 13th, pupils had enough sales to buy five and are hoping for more before school closes on Dec. 22nd.

Christmas is coming as one can see by the Christmas trees bursting into bloom in the various rooms. Seventh grade has a large tree in the upper hall.

Variety Shower Tendered To Mrs. Harry Jones

Mrs. Harry Jones, Hayes street, formerly Miss "Betty" Mandio was tendered a variety shower, Tuesday evening by Mrs. John Kopack, Trenton avenue. The party was held at the home of Mrs. Jones' parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Mandio, Hayes street. The decorations were white and a supper was served.

Those present: Mrs. Linford Jones, Mrs. K. Rutkowski, Mrs. Leonard Fenton, Mrs. Frank Murphy, Mrs. Clark McCahan, Mrs. Patrick McInerney, Mrs. Thomas Sharp, Mrs. William Denight, Mrs. James Mandio, Mrs. John Kopack.

BUNNIES CUT FOULING

Junior Varsity Squad Remains Unbeaten As It Tops
N. J. S. D. Jayvees, 22-14

With Marvin Collins and Joe Embessi leading the attack, Bristol High scored its second consecutive win last night, beating the New Jersey School for Deaf team, 33-27, on the local court.

The two local basketball teams tabulated 20 points between them although the passing exhibited by their mates was the best done so far this season. Collins made six double-doubles, while Embessi rang up four.

The Bunnies also made a deep cut in their fouling, giving the Jersey team but 14 free shots from the foul line. Ordille, who led the losers, scored eight of his team's points, while Duncan had seven.

The Bristol Junior Varsity squad remained unbeaten as it topped the New Jersey School for Deaf Jayvees, 22-14. Coach Harold Stackhouse used 15 players in the junior varsity triumph, with John Capriotti being the only player to get more than one field goal.

Venturi's seven points made him high man for the Jersey club.

Bristol will remain idle now until after the Christmas holiday, when it meets Southampton on the home floor.

street were ordered, as well as the surfacing of one block of Cox avenue in Chedester Manor by the street committee. The Pennsylvania Railroad was again notified to complete repairs to the drain at the foot of Washington street. Council also notified the State Department of Health that the borough had engaged Albright and Friel, Inc., consulting engineers, to make an extensive survey of a sanitary sewage system.

There were 26 arrests for the month of November, according to a report by the police department. 40 radio calls and 1,674 patrol miles.

The Board of Health reported one case of scarlet fever, 15 complaints abated, 4 nuisances, one cesspool inspection and three permits issued, and one Federal house inspection.

Police Chief Again Cautions Drivers

generally obscured. Drivers, preoccupied with the cold weather, become careless with their signalling and are more inclined to disregard traffic signs. Some are too careless or lazy to put on tire chains when needed for adequate stop-and-go traction on snow or ice, while others neglect fixing windshield wipers or defrosters.

All these factors were accountable for the fact that the traffic death rate in the northern snow-belt states last winter was 53 per cent higher than the 1943 summer rate.

Here are trouble-prevention tips from Chief Jones. They are rules for driving under adverse weather and road conditions, based on researches of the National Safety Council:

Winter Rules
1. Adjust speed to conditions.
2. Slow down well in advance of intersections and curves.
3. Follow other vehicles at safe distances.

4. Put on tire chains when roads are slippery with snow or ice. They provide "go" traction and reduce braking distances 50 per cent.

5. Make sure windshield wipers defrosters really work. Signal intention of turning or stopping.

6. Apply brakes lightly and intermittently on icy roads.

7. Remember that braking distances on snow and ice without anti-skid chains are from 4 to 11 times greater than on dry pavement, and that wet ice at near thawing temperatures is twice as slippery as dry ice near zero.

The Great Game of Politics

argument can be made that Miss Perkins is the best. Certainly, no one will contend that either of her two immediate predecessors—William N. Doak, or the Hon. James J. Davis (Fuddler Jim), now about to retire from the Senate—were better than Miss Perkins—or even as good. Nor did the late William B. Wilson, our first Secretary of Labor, leave behind him an enduring reputation. As the office was created in 1913 and, besides Miss Perkins, only three others have held it, she can come pretty close to substantiating a claim to having been the best.

THE WORST that can be said of her is that she seemed always willing to believe that in any controversy the employer was always wrong and the union (particularly the CIO) was always right; that she felt that everything Mr. Roosevelt said or did was absolutely perfect and only the ignorant and vicious would dissent, and that, occasionally, she said some silly things. So far as the first two of these allegations are concerned, Miss Perkins differs not at all from other administrationists. If there is any other member of the Cabinet who considers what Mr. Roosevelt says or does less than perfect, he has kept his thoughts completely to himself.

IF THERE is any member of the Cabinet who thinks, for example, that union labor (particularly the CIO unions) has been less than completely unselfish and co-operative in the war effort, he has carefully refrained from expressing that view. Actually, the Under Secretary of War, Mr. Patterson; the Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Forrestal, and others who know—or, anyhow, should know—a lot better, time and again have criticised the labor leaders when criticism was what they had well earned. Despite unctuous reiteration of the no-strike pledge, the thousands on thousands of strikes which slowed down war production have been minimized or ignored by every Government official from the President down.

colleague, Attorney General Biddle. Nor has she been accused of intimate association with the most notorious lobbyist in Washington—Mr. Tommy Corcoran. This is no brief for Miss Perkins. She is not an ideal official, by a long shot. Nevertheless, she is no more vulnerable than various other highly placed officials. And, unpleasant as it is to say, apparently the basic reason for the long, sustained campaign against her is that she is a woman. As her successor, the first name on the list is that of Mr. Daniel J. Tobin, head of the International Teamsters Union. Mr. Tobin is an old labor hack whose general popularity was well displayed in his Roosevelt seconding speech at Chicago last July. Various unsavory charges, in great detail, have been made against him in print by Mr. Westbrook Pegler, which he has never answered, except by abuse.

THE IDEA that in any way he would be an improvement on Miss Perkins cannot seriously be entertained. And if Mr. Tobin should not be appointed, then the place is expected to go to some labor stooge upon whom Mr. Green, of the AFL, and the Messrs. Hillman and Murray, of the CIO, can agree. Mr. Green, Mr. Hillman and Mr. Murray are much too important and much too well paid to accept this portfolio themselves. Thinking the situation over, perhaps some who have been clamoring for the retirement of Miss Perkins may change their minds. We could do a lot worse—and probably will.

One by one, like cattle at a fair, the captive women are auctioned to the highest bidder... Sold into a life of labor or as playthings for Nazi masters.

The Southland shuddered at the very mention of the Mystic Clan. For this band of murdering hoodlums was led by a blood-thirsty killer who drove his clan with a fanatical viciousness until he talked out of turn. This is another in a series of famous crimes that baffled the greatest detectives in America. Don't miss "The Case of the Mystic Clan" in The American Weekly... with your Sunday Record.
